

Privacy Policy

Last Updated: 29 January 2024

Overview:

At Browsr, we are committed to protecting your privacy and ensuring the security of your personal information. This Privacy Policy outlines the types of information we collect, how we use it, and the measures we take to safeguard your data.

User-Provided Information:

While most data is collected anonymously, certain features may require personally identifiable information. We ensure that such information is collected explicitly and transparently, with clear explanations of the purpose.

Use of Analytics Data:

The analytics data collected is used to generate insights, trends, and reports to assist website owners and administrators in making informed decisions. We do not sell or share your data for marketing purposes.

Security Measures:

We safeguard your information against unauthorized access, disclosure, modification, and destruction by implementing industry-standard security procedures.

Third-Party Services:

To enhance our analytics services, we may integrate with third-party tools or services. However, your personal information is not shared with these services unless essential for the functionality of our analytics tool.

Cookies and Tracking Technologies:

We may use cookies and other tracking technologies to improve your online experience. Through the settings of your browser, you may control your cookie choices.

Legal Basis:

Our data processing activities are based on the legal requirements outlined in applicable regulations, such as GDPR.

This Privacy Policy is effective as of 29 January 2024 and may be updated periodically. Please review this policy regularly for any changes.
